Rural Tourist Accommodation Occupancy Survey 2011

INE. National Statistics Institute

1. Foreword

This publication presents the results corresponding to the Rural Tourist Accommodation Occupancy Survey.

The most important information from the survey is offered monthly, in accordance with the dissemination regulations of the Institute.

The data provided reflects the two aspects considered when analysing tourist trends: with regard to demand, there is information on travellers, overnight stays and average stay, distributed by residence of the travellers, or by Autonomous Community of origin in the case of Spanish travellers; in terms of supply, the information includes the estimated number of establishments open for the season, estimated number of bedplaces, estimated number of bedrooms, occupancy rate and information on employment in the sector.

This information is presented monthly for the national scope, by Autonomous Community, province, area and site with the highest number of overnight stays.

The National Statistics Institute would like to show its appreciation to all professionals, businesspersons and institutions related to the tourist sector for the collaboration provided, which has been essential in conducting this survey.

2. Objectives

The main objective of the Tourist Accommodation Occupancy Survey (Rural Tourism Accommodation) is to ascertain the behaviour of a series of variables which allow us to describe the basic characteristics of this type of accommodation within the tourist sector, from both supply and demand points of view, so that the need for knowledge regarding this sector by national organisations, and the requirements of international organisations are thus addressed.

3. Statistical unit

These are all Rural Tourism Accommodation Establishments, registered as such in the corresponding register from each Autonomous Community, in accordance with the definitions which for said accommodations appear in the different Autonomous Community regulations.

Rural Tourism Accommodation Establishments are those establishments or dwellings intended for tourist accommodation, in exchange for a price with or without any other complementary services which are registered in the corresponding Register of each Autonomous Community. These establishments usually present a specific set of characteristics:

a) They are located in a rural environment.

b) They are constructions with a common architectonic style that is characteristic of the area or which are located in land properties which maintain active livestock and farming operations (agrotourism).

c) They offer a limited number of beplaces and bedrooms for the accommodation of guests, and they comply with certain infrastructure and basic services requirements.

Rural tourism accommodation establishments may adopt one of these two rent modalities, or both:

- the complete-use rent modality is described as the complete hiring of the property for the exclusive use of the contractor,

- the shared-use rent modality is defined as the individualised hiring of bedrooms within the family dwelling itself.

4. Survey Scope

All establishments and/or companies operating in the country are researched.

With the exception of Ceuta and Melilla, where there are no establishments of this type.

5. Definition of variables

5.1 Estimated open rural tourism accommodation establishments

Number of seasonally opened rural tourism accommodation establishments estimated by the survey.

Seasonally opened rural tourism accommodation establishments are those where the month of reference is included within their opening period.

5.2 Estimated bedplaces in a rural tourism accommodation establishment

Number of bedplaces estimated by the survey of the seasonally opened rural tourism accommodation establishments.

The bedplaces of a rural tourism accommodation establishment are understood to be the number of fixed beds available in it; therefore, supplementary beds are not included, and double beds give rise to two bedplaces.

5.3 Traveller

All persons who stay one or more consecutive nights in the same accommodation.

Travellers are classified by their place of residence. In the case of Spaniards, information is requested on the Autonomous Community of origin.

5.4 Overnight stay.

An overnight stay is understood to be each night that a traveller stays in the rural tourism accommodation establishment.

For example, a married couple with a child in a supplementary bed, will be counted as an occupied room and three overnight stays or occupied bedplaces.

5.5 Average stay

This variable is an approximation of the number of days which, on average, travellers stay at the rural tourism accommodation establishment, and is calculated as the quotient between the overnight stays and the number of travellers.

5.6 Occupancy rate by bedplaces

Percentage-based relationship between the number of overnight stays and the product of the bedplaces, by the days to which the overnight stays refer, including the number of supplementary beds used.

It can be deduced from this definition that a rural tourist accommodation may have an occupancy rate of less than 100 percent, and yet not have any available bedplaces, as an establishment or a bedroom or double-bed may be occupied by a single person being accounted for as an overnight stay. However, the accommodation establishment or the bedroom may have a greater capacity (more bedplaces).

5.7 Weekend occupancy rate by bedplaces

Relationship, as a percentage, between the total number of overnight stays and the product of the bedplaces, by the two days to which the overnight stays refer (Friday and Saturday), including supplementary beds.

It can be deduced from this definition that a rural tourist accommodation may have an occupancy rate of less than 100 percent, and yet not have any available bedplaces, as an establishment or a bedroom or double-bed may be occupied by a single person being accounted for as an overnight stay. However, the accommodation establishment or the bedroom may have a greater capacity (more bedplaces).

5.8 Supplementary beds

Supplementary beds are those that do not have a fixed nature, and are not included in the bedplaces declared officially by the establishment and which do appear in the directory.

The furniture installed permanently in the rural tourism accommodation establishment (sofa bed, foldaway bed, etc.) is only considered a supplementary bed when actually used as such.

Cots will also be considered as supplementary beds.

5.9 Occupancy rate by bedroom

This is the relationship, as a percentage, between the average daily number of rooms occupied during the month, and the total number of bedrooms in the sample during the same period.

5.10 Employed personnel

This is defined as the group of persons, remunerated and not remunerated, who contribute with their work to the production of goods and services during the reference period of the survey, even when they work outside the premises.

Note: in $\sum_{i=1}^{e''_{jk}} N_{ijkm}$ m will have to be adjusted to the listing of places of origin in the print questionnaire.

Number of occupied supplementary bedplaces

8. Information collection

With the objective of alleviating wherever possible the work of the informants, the basic data on rural tourism accommodation establishments refers to seven consecutive days of each month, chosen randomly, in such a way that all establishments combined cover the whole month.

Information is provided monthly by holiday dwelling establishments or operating companies, using a questionnaire, to the National Statistics Institute. Likewise, it is possible to submit the information telematically or by uploading an XML file or over an Internet connection by means of the ARCE system, by completing the questionnaire directly on-screen.

9. Dissemination of the information

The information is presented on different levels of geographical breakdown: national, Autonomous Community, provincial, tourist area and tourist site.

The areas (groups of municipalities) have been considered, as well as the municipalities in which tourist affluence is specifically located.
